Altering the shooting season for Grouse and certain other A.D. 1874.
Game Birds in Ireland.

WHEREAS under an Act of the Parliament of Ireland, of the thirty-seventh year of the reign of King George the Third, (chapter twenty-one), intituled "An Act to amend the Game Laws," the shooting season in Ireland for moor game, heath game, and 37 G. 3. c. 21.
5 grouse begins on the twentieth day of August, and that for partridges, land rails, and quails on the twentieth day of September; and it is expedient that the law in Ireland be in these respects altered:

Be it therefore enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty,
10 by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1. The said Act of the Parliament of Ireland shall be read and have effect as if with respect to moor game, heath game, and 15 grouse the twelfth day of August, and with respect to partridges, land rails, and quails the tenth day of September had been mentioned throughout that Act instead of the twentieth day of August and twentieth day of September respectively.

Grouse season to begin on 12th Aug. and partridge season on 10th Sept.
in Ireland.

2. This Act may be cited as The Game Birds (Ireland) Act, 37th Vict.
20 1874.
